Closed Ocean Avenue, Motel Girdle In Plan

A preliminary draft of Carmel's Master Plan was given to the Planning Commission by Consultant Larry Livingston, Jr., yesterday afternoon. For two hours, projecting everyone 25 years into the future, supposing a Carmel population of 16,350 persons, he described what might be done if the plan is adopted and followed.

Yesterday evening the Planning Commission in study session approved a large part of his plans, so that they may be drawn up for formal presentation. They will meet again tonight to finish the approval project. Two public hearings will be held in June by the Commission when citizens may say what they think of the proposals.

Ocean Avenue from Junipero Street to Monte Verde will be closed to traffic. Called "the Ocean Avenue Mall" by Livingston, it will be a parklike promenade, with small shops on each side, much planting, kiosks, fountains, sculptures, and booths for artisan display, and, behind the front stores, patios and courts, around which will be more small shops and restaurants with outside areas for eating. All utilities will be underground.

At the eastern end of the Mall will be the Civic Center (F on map) which will include Devendorf Plaza and the area occupied by the Carmel Theater. Here will be the City Hall, Fire and Police Stations and the Post Office. An L-shaped building design is proposed with the City Hall starting at the Christmas tree site and extending westward. The Post Office will lie to the south extending down the L, in the theater block. The area will be "like a village square" said Livingston.

The present Lions Club lot will be a double-decker parking area for 125 cars with entrances and exits off both Junipero and Mission Streets. Additional space for 125 cars will be on the opposite side of the "square". "Imagine parking for 250 cars when you go to the Post Office", cajoled Livingston. Loading areas for the shops will be provided by "parallel islands" in the rear of stores, such as used on college campuses.

Architectural design of the tourist-directed shopping Mall will not be uniform. Livingston recommended "control" but advocated "individual design" such as we now have which "gives Carmel its unique and varied character".

"Do not suppress originality," he said.

Surrounding the central shopping district will be parking lots attractively planted with trees and shrubs.

A pattern of one-way streets will feed into these off-street lots. Cars will be parked at a forty-five degree angle, nose to nose, with noses divided by planting. In all, 2075 cars may be parked in the provided lots, a gain of 980 over all present on and off-street facilities, or almost double the existing 1095 spaces.

At the rear of shops facing the parking lots, pedestrian paths will be provided. Proposed new entrances to the stores and display windows are suggested along these paths.

On the outer sides of the parking lots, away from the Mall, will be stores for community needs, such as groceries, gas stations, plumbing and electrical shops, etc.

Business area buildings in "poor condition, those of lowest value," will be demolished to create the lots. Existing open spaces and unimproved property will be included.

All this shopping, parking and Civic Center, plus the Corporation Yard (E), on now owned city property near the Youth Center is the solid black area on the map. It provides, although concentrated, double the commercial facilities now existing.

Outside of this will be transition area (hatched on map) which includes some of the present shops and businesses which will have to move into the black area. The transition area is for multiple dwellings which will form a "buffer" between the strictly commercial, black area, and the residential zone.

In this space will go hotels, motels, apartment houses, churches, clubs and professional offices. Again Livingston's plan provides for doubling present existing facilities. This area will be reached from the outlying districts by means of "Junipero Avenue", a four-lane street starting off Highway 1 in the north at the present Carpenter Street entrance, coming down by the Serra statue on through the outer fringe of the business area leaving Carmel

FEATURES OF THE PLAN

A four-lane highway on Junipero Street connecting with the state freeway north and south of town.

Conversion of five blocks now zoned as residence and part of two others so zoned to multiple dwelling use (apartment houses, hotels, motels). Conversion of a residence zone block to business zone; and parts of two other residence blocks to business.

Conversion of nine blocks now zoned for business to multiple dwelling; three of these are spot zoned for existing business. Other improved business property, now in business use, has been down graded to multiple use.

Closing Ocean Avenue to vehicular traffic.

Cutting all business lots through the center for parking.

Civic Center containing city buildings, police and fire houses, and post office between Junipero and Mission; Sixth and Seventh; and blocking Ocean Avenue at that point.

Sporting NOTES

DICK JENNINGS BLANKS LIVE OAK ON THREE-HITTER

Running his skein of scoreless innings to 40 in succession, Carmel High's Dick Jennings pitched the Padres to an important league win over Live Oak Tuesday afternoon, scattering three hits over the seven-inning route and hanging a horse collar on the Acorns all the way. It was a fortunate thing for the Padres that the Big Chief had plenty of stuff as Carmel could scrape up only one run off the slants of Live Oak's lefty, Jim Hall. Jennings struck out 8, walked 4, and was extremely tough in the pinches. He helped his own cause in the final inning when the Acorn leadoff batter drew a walk to open the inning only to be picked off first on a perfect move by the clever right hander.

Carmel's scrappy catcher, Bob Michela, who is shaping up as one of the finest maskmen in Northern California, played a large part in the Padre victory by nailing three runners at second and turning in a fine game behind the log. Bob also joined the select circle of Carmel lads who managed to get a hit off Jim Halls left-handed slants. Jim Konrad and Jennings also picked up singles against the tricky lefty.

The Padres scored the only run of the game in the fourth inning when Mike Mosolf was hit by a wild pitch, stole second, and scored from second on Bill McCormack's perfect bunt down third baseline.

Carmel draws a bye this Friday but returns to the home field next week, clashing with Santa Cruz in a practice tilt on Tuesday and entertaining Gilroy in a league crucial on Friday, May 4. A victory over Gilroy will put the local preps in contention for the league crown if the Mustangs stumble against any of their other opponents. Carmel is now two games behind Gilroy with six games left to play on the league schedule.

CARMEL JUNIOR-VARSITY DEFEATS LIVE OAK, 5 TO 3

Playing their best game of the current season, Carmel High's junior-varsity baseball team upset the favored Live Oak junior-varsity Tuesday afternoon at the Padre diamond. While the Carmel varsity played at Live Oak (Morgan Hill), the Acorn jv squad made the trek to Carmel.

Pitching his first seven-inning game, Parker Pollock, hurled a steady game, giving up 4 hits and striking out 10 Acorn swingers. A streak of wildness in the sixth frame produced the 3 runs for the visitors as Pollock walked the bases full and Acorn pitcher, Al Munoz, slammed out a roaring double to empty the sacks.

Carmel picked up one run in the first inning as Andy Gray walked, stole second, and scored on Joe Mason's screaming single. The Little Padres got two more in the third heat on doubles by Mike Gahagan and Andy Gray and a single by Mike O'Shea. Neil Giarratana's rousing double drove in two more in the fourth inning.

CARMEL TRIO GETS THIRD PLACE IN ATASCADERO RELAYS

Small but potent aptly describes the three-man Carmel High track team which journeyed to Atascadero for the Relays last Saturday. Twenty schools participated in the meet and only two of the twenty finished in front of the scrappy Carmel trio. Scoring heavily with third and fourth places, Tranquility High won the varsity division with Paso Robles finishing in the runner-up spot.

Carmel notched third place on the strength of Dave Ostrander's fourth in the 100-yard dash, Don Petty's first in the shot-put, and Mike Mosolf first in the broad-jump, second in high-jump, and third in the low-hurdles.

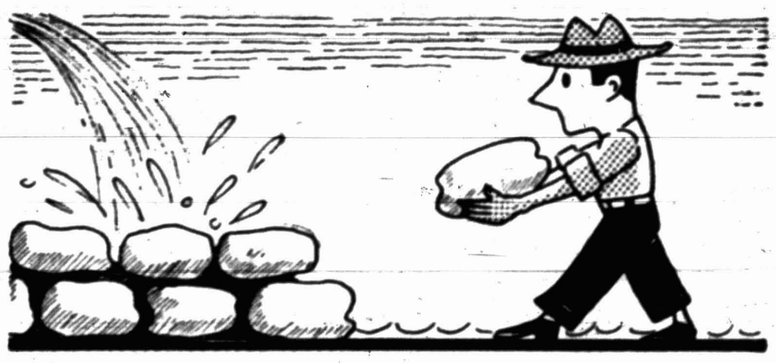
PADRES IN THREE-WAY TRACK MEET AT MONTEREY TODAY

Carmel High's track team which has bowled over all opposition in dual and three-way meets this season takes on rough competition this afternoon when the red and gray spikemen invade the Monterey oval for a three-way meet with the Toreadores and Pacific Grove Breakers. Carmel edged Pacific Grove in a dual meet last week and figures to finish in front of the Breakers today, but the Monterey speedsters will offer a severe test for Coach Rainer's thinclads.

Carmel's heavyweight squad will rely on Dave Ostrander and Bill McCormack in the sprints, Merv Sutton, Mike McCormick, Hampton Stewart, and Greg Scherman in the middle distances, Art Wilkerson and Stan Whitmore in the mile, Mike Mosolf, Roger Smith, Dave Gray, and Merv Sutton in the hurdles, and a relay squad of Ostrander, Don Petty, McCormack, and Mosolf. In the field events, the Padres will offer stern competition with Petty putting the shot, Pierre Olivie, Dave Gray, and Kyrk Reid threatening to sweep the discus, Mosolf and Olivie in the broad-jump, Phil Durbrow going for a new record in the pole-vault, and a fine trio of high-jumpers in Mosolf, Stewart, and Smith.

Although the lightweight squad is badly outmanned when stacked against a big school such as Monterey, the Little Padres can hold their own with schools in their own league and will pick their share of points in today's three-wayer. Top lightweight performers are Bert Macahilig and Tony Bingham in the sprints, Bill Harder, Dick Leutzinger, and Dave Tobiasen, hurdlers; Gary Bradburn, Norman Bykerk, Bob McCormick, and Alf Anderson, middle-distances; Buzz Richardson, 1320; and a speedy sprint relay team of Macahilig, Bingham, Harder, and Anderson. Field event standouts are pole-vaulters Bob Forbes and Phil White; high-jumper Ron Leidig; and shot-putter Macahilig.

Today's meet is scheduled for 4 o'clock and the public is invited to attend—free of charge.



This is one of the great differences between water supply systems.

In some valley areas where there is plenty of water "down under" all you have to do to provide communities with a supply is to drill wells and pump the water into the distribution systems. Under such conditions water is usually cheap.

In other areas you may have to build dams on a river to gather and store water which falls in the rainy season . . . as is the case here. We have two dams on the Carmel River, Los Padres and San Clemente, which impound the water that flows into the river from the mountain watershed. Naturally, water costs more where dams have to be built than it does in areas where all you have to do to get it is pump it.

Have you seen the graphic relief map of your water system at 481 Tyler Street, in Monterey?

Taxes Serious Block To Hope Of A Green Belt

City Planning Consultant Larry Livingston, Jr., offered his services free to help preserve a green belt around Carmel, at an informal meeting Tuesday night, of city planning commissioners and owners of land immediately adjacent to Carmel.

"I have known Carmel, as a visitor, for over 35 years," he stated, "I love it like all of you, I volunteer my time, aside from work on the Carmel Master Plan, and after its completion, to find some realistic and practical way to work out the problem". By the problem he referred to the retention of "some of the most beautiful open country in the world", as he phrased it, "which surrounds Carmel making a sharp transition from town to country; one of Carmel's precious assets."

Green belt owners, either at the meeting or represented by their lawyers, were mostly in accord with the Carmel Planning Commission's proposed idea of keeping their land free from development, but stated that taxation might "drive them to the wall", so expressed by Stuyvesant Fish. He stated that terrific rise in taxation on agricultural land in this area might cause the landowners, in order to survive, "to divide their land into the smallest chunks possible" for building lots. Emphatic in saying that this was the last thing he ever wished to see, as he was "behind the green belt idea," Fish said that "if he promised to leave his land untouched he "should have some assurance that taxes would not go beyond the limit of what a ranch can produce."

Carmel Martin, representing owners Philip Hatton and Bruno Odello, stated that his clients, whose land is adjacent to subdivisions, would prefer to have residential zoning of their property, (although they now plan to maintain it in agricultural use) because taxation at some future date would force them also to abandon farming, and subdivide.

Dudley Swim, the only Greenbelt owner to go "whole hog" with the Carmel Planning Commission's greenbelt plan, thought it was a matter of "community welfare to set up a green belt." He wanted, "beauty consecrated not desecrated", if residential zoning in five, ten or 100 acre sites was necessary for the other landowners' protection, Swim would go along with them, providing an agreement were made that for 10 or 15 years nothing was subdivided. He cited Del Monte properties as a possible model for future residential development.

Thomson Jay Hudson, representing Hudson, Riley and Allen holdings at Point Lobos, stated that as a member of the family he was "a hundred percent behind the green belt." As their legal adviser he advocated residential zoning because of possible future hardship.

"You will have your conscience to deal with", he remarked, "when the widow comes to you impoverished by taxes." He was advising his family "to temper their enthusiasm" for the untouched preservation of their land, "to be cautious."

Mrs. L. J. Hudson of Point Lobos at the end of the meeting suggested that maybe an irrevocable foundation or trust, such as the Save the Redwoods League or the Save the Beaches group might be organized to "save the green belt" for agricultural use. Mrs. Hudson felt that any land owner forced to sell would be willing to have land go to such a possible organization, knowing that the land would be preserved always for farming use.

"I want my greatgrandchildren to grow up knowing what an artichoke looks like," she stated.

Corum Jackson and James Doud, by letter, conveyed their idea that, though in favor of the green belt, they wished existing residential zoning "to stay as it is."

Raymond Smith, through his attorney, Ralph Thompson, stated he was opposed to the green belt. Smith has waited a long time for the 25 year deed restrictions of five acre sites to expire on his Aguajito property.

Wright Fisher, subdivider, stated he was "in favor of the green belt, but not on my land." He also said that in his opinion, one acre zoned residential areas were potential rural slums,

"The chickens, and one cow type," he explained.

Subdivisions of two or three lots to an acre were better use of the land, he thought. The one acre subdivisions were "neither fish nor fowl."

George Dollar of Carmel Valley stated the small landowners' case. Mrs. Grace Howden expressed the idea that large building sites were advantageous.

Enos Fouratt came up with a proposal concerning the area (printed elsewhere in this paper).

"This is such an intelligent group" stated Livingston, at the end of the meeting, "that I am sure we can work out a satisfactory solution." He then made his offer of free help.

Louise O'Brien

Mrs. Louise Waller O'Brien, mother of Mrs. John B. Geisen, died in Chicago on Sunday. She was on her way to her summer home on Lake Michigan when she suffered a fatal heart attack.

Mrs. O'Brien, member of a prominent old Chicago family, had been a winter resident of Carmel for many years. She was particularly interested in music and as a fine tennis player, played in tournaments at the Beach Club, of which she was a member. Her delightful humor, warm personality and sympathetic interest in people made for her a large group of friends in Carmel.

Her husband, the late Howard Vincent O'Brien, writer and newspaperman, died in 1940. Mrs. O'Brien was 64 years old at the time of her death.

Besides her daughter, Jean Geisen, she is survived by a son, Bayne O'Brien of Phoenix, Arizona; and three grandchildren, Toni and Heather Hamilton and Donel Geisen, all of Carmel.

Funeral services for Mrs. O'Brien were held in Winnetka, Illinois, on Tuesday.

Special schools for telephone people

The young lady at right is putting in her first day with the telephone company. Actually, she's in school, training at a practice switchboard to be an operator. In the same way, lots of other people with no telephone experience have become skilled in telephone work. We run many different schools for our employees, to train them as linemen, service representatives, and so on. This special schooling helps telephone people build better careers for themselves. And it also means your service is always in the hands of well-trained people. The men and women of Pacific Telephone work to make your telephone more useful every day.

THE NEW PREFIXES

As part of Pacific Telephone's $500,000 expansion and service improvement program for Monterey, Carmel and Los Laureles area, all phone numbers will be changed. The new phone numbers will have five digets plus a prefix.

This picture shows some of the many things that have to be done in order that we can make this change over. Shown here are Western Electric men, Jerry Jones, Doug Corcilius, and R. H. Wolford. They are adding equipment in the central office for a seven diget dialing system which will go into effect this summer. The new numbers will place your telephone in the nation-wide numbering system being established throughout the country.

above the Mission, but continuing past it, to join with the proposed freeway. Across from Mission Fields two there will be a new shopping center, approved by the County Planning Commission Tuesday. The present Highway 1 will be closed to through traffic above the hospital and narrowed to two lanes. Making Junipero the only direct approach to Carmel from the north or south.

The only other entrance will be peripheral Pescadero Canyon Road, starting off the freeway at the Del Monte Hill gate, following along the edge of Del Monte Properties' land until it reaches Monte Verde Street. There it joins the "Collector" streets which circle the parking areas. These "collectors" are Junipero, Monte Verde, Fifth and Eighth Streets.

The system of roads will also lead to the six schools. Sunset will become a Community Center. Woods and River sites will be expanded, the latter by five acres. The High School will be for the Seventh and Eighth Grades. A new elementary school and the High School will be situated up the Valley, three quarters of a mile from the present Valley entrance. Another new school will be on Aguajito Road in the Jack's Peak area. These are marked A, D, I, M, P, and Q.

Livingston feels there is a definite need for a Community Center in Carmel. It would be a social and cultural center situated on Sunset School site (G) containing an auditorium, art gallery, branch library, festival hall and meeting rooms for clubs and rehearsal rooms for dramatic and music groups. The lower level playground would be kept as supervised play area and the upper for off-street parking. Parks will be all over.

Starting with the beach, Livingston would have it include all beach land, in a continuous chain from the north end of Carmel Beach to Point Lobos. He advocates the elimination of two dwellings on the ocean side of Scenic on Carmel Point but would retain the Frank Lloyd Wright designed home. Nothing should be built on this side of the road and the one building site undeveloped on the west side should also be acquired to make the beach-coastline chain complete.

At the site of the Bay School would be a parking area for 250 cars, at the river mouth more hidden parking beneath the Serra Cross Bluff. This entire River Mouth area would be natural park extending up to the Carmel River Bridge. It would remain a bird refuge and be an extension of the existing State Park (see R).

Livingston recommends the acquisition of the Mission Ranch for a recreation area. Here the not so hardy persons could be provided with picnic and game areas, lockers, rest rooms. Those who wished to enjoy the wild nature of the rest of River Mouth Park could easily park at the Ranch and walk to the beach-river area.

Junipero Serra Park (J) would start in the meadow opposite the Mission and follow the floor and sides of the canyon into the Eighty Acres. It would be left natural. Off-street hidden parking at the entrance, would provide access and also take care of Mission overflow.

The Mission site should be expanded (O). This would absorb the Mission Ranch riding stables and include 5 acres as yet undeveloped south of the Mission. The latter piece already belongs to the Mission. Robinson Jeffers Park and Library (L) would preserve Jeffers' Carmel Point land exactly as it is today. His home would also be preserved, although some alteration might be necessary for the library. This latter would be a branch library and also house a permanent collection of the literature which is the "Carmel heritage", said Livingston. All additions to existing construction would harmonize with the poet's home.

The Forest Theater would remain a Park (H). North Carmel Recreation Park (B) will consist of the present tennis courts joined to the adjacent land owned by the city and currently used for dumping fill. City Entrance Park (C) would be the steep, easterly slopes of La Loma Terrace starting above the Hospital and continuing to the Carpenter Street entrance to Carmel and include the small road division island now landscaped. The pine clad slopes would be untouched.

Last of the parks would be the Mesa Recreation Park (K). This is the island of land just south of the High School between Highway No. 1 and the old County Road. However a small subdivision is proposed here and this park will not exist unles five acres are available.

PINKY IS OURS

If you think Police Chief Clyde Klaumann and Commissioner John Chitwood are just trying out that pink police patrol car, you're wrong. We own it. It's our new patrol car. A brown car was ordered, but when this arrived by mistake, the police force fell in love with it, so Commissioner Chitwood decided to keep it.

Editor's Column

Please vote yes for the school bonds today if you haven't already. The class rooms are for the kids; not the teachers. Along with all the wrath which fell on my head this week about my news story of the school board meeting in last week's Pine Cone was the reproachful refrain:

"You couldn't have picked a worse time to say all our teachers are lazy. I just hope it doesn't hurt the bonds."

I didn't say our teachers are lazy; the school board did. But I forgot to put quotes around it, unfortunately. More specifically, School Board Member Mrs. Howard Elton Clark was responsible for the "lazy" comment, and the other members of the board, by their silence, concurred. At that, Mrs. Clark did not appear to include the entire faculty in her remark. When Board Chairman J. O. Handley said he had learned that the board did not have to grant automatic salary schedule raises, as they had assumed, and added that this left the board free to raise the pay of the teachers "who deserved it" and allow those who did not "to stay where they were on the schedule," Mrs. Clark said: "Oh, then we don't have to raise the lazy teachers' pay." She could have meant the whole faculty, but I do not think she did. She could have said: "Oh, then we don't have to raise the pay of those teachers who are lazy," and been absolutely clear, but who talks like that?

Now that I have shifted the onus on Mrs. Clark, I'd like to point out that there should not be any onus. We have a faculty of 60. Most of our teachers are very good at their profession; some of them are outstanding. Apparently the school board thinks there are a few who are not giving their best efforts to their jobs. Can the board be blamed for not wanting to raise the salary of such teachers and thus encourage them to remain. Also, there is a limited, budgeted, amount of money for teachers' pay. Every undeserved raise siphons off funds that should be used to provide better salaries for the superior teachers. Superior teachers can be attracted to other districts where there is practical evidence that they are appreciated.

But a commotion over whether or not certain teachers do or do not get their scheduled raise, and who said what about it, has nothing to do with the bond election.

Vote yes for the kids' sakes.

There are a number of details of Mr. Livingston's Master Plan that are very Carmelish and the community will love them on sight. Also, it is a wonderful job of engineering, providing for a free flow of traffic and parking by the basketful. To acquire the latter will be an expensive matter, and I am not clear at present how it is to be achieved or who is to pay for it, but that can wait.

There are two features of the plan that will change Carmel as a community. I am wondering how the residents—not the business population, but the home owners, the dwellers—of the community will react to them.

The first of these is essential to Mr. Livingston's free flow of traffic. It calls for a four-lane highway on Junipero street connecting with the proposed freeway at the

Conservation On The March

A Weekly Column by C. Edward Graves Western Representative. National Parks Association

Senator Neuberger of Oregon, who won his recent election very largely on the conservation issue, sends out a very interesting monthly newsletter on subjects of concern to his constituents. In his March letter appears an item of great importance to those of us who are fearful that we may lose our best rivers and lakes to the dam builders.

The senator reports an announcement by the Kaiser Aluminum Company and the Olin-Mathieson Chemical Corporation that they can buy power from improved new steam plants in the Ohio Valley for 4 mills a kilowatt-hour. The Kaiser general manager, Mr. D. A. Rhoades, made the following statement: "The real significance lies in the fact that the aluminum industry is no longer dependent upon locations close to large hydroelectric installations which are remote from industrial markets. We are convinced that it is a turning point for the rapidly-expanding aluminum industry".

There are two important points here. First, the fact that the low price of 4 mills a kilowatt-hour is made possible by recent improvements in the production of steam-electric power. Second, that these plants do not need to be located adjacent to large hydro-electric installations.

As to price, the power that would have been produced at Echo Park Dam* in Dinosaur National Monument, now happily defeated, was to have sold at 6 mills, according to the Bureau of Reclamation estimates. Senator Neuberger states that power at the Hells Canyon dam site, now being developed by the privately-owned Idaho Power Company, will sell at an even higher price. With steam electric power available right at the back door of the consuming centers of America for 4 mills, it would seem as if power dams on our western rivers are no longer needed.

With the power factor gone, there are only two other purposes in dam building—flood control and irrigation. A fact not appreciated by many people is that these two purposes are contradictory. To be effective for flood control a reservoir should be empty all the time. To be effective for irrigation it should be full all the time.

The statement that "the aluminum industry is no longer dependent on locations close to large hydro-electric installations" brings to mind an article by Genevieve Barteaux in the National Parks Magazine for October - December 1953. It is entitled "The Tweedsmuir Give-away" and is the story of the ruin of Tweedsmuir Provincial Park in British Columbia, one of Canada's largest and most beautiful parks, by the Aluminum Company of Canada for the type of power that the Kaiser Aluminum Company declares is now no longer needed.

When Lord Tweedsmuir first saw this area, later named for him, he described it as "the land of the golden twilight on the rim of the great unknown". It is now a mess of ruined rivers and lakes converted into the second largest hydro-electric power project in the world. And only three years after it was built another large aluminum company declares that locations of this kind are no longer necessary! It seems to me that the planners of this Canadian project—and perhaps of some others too — must have had their eyes glued to their feet.

Bernice Huber Ceramist Is Next "Artist At Work"

The second in the series Artists At Work at the Carmel Art Association gallery on Dolores Street will be a demonstration of pottery on the wheel by Miss Bernice Huber, local ceramist, on Tuesday evening at 8:00 o'clock.

This series is offered by the Carmel Adult School in cooperation with the Carmel Art Association, and is open to the public free of charge.

Miss Huber studied at Warner Studio in Portland, Oregon; at the Chouinard Art Institute in Los Angeles; and through an extension course given by the University of Washington where she also studied pottery with Paul Bonifas, head of the Ceramic Department.

Formerly affiliated with the Studio Gallery Workshop in Seattle, Miss Huber was persuaded to move to Carmel several years ago through the branch workshop here. She served as general chairman of the Craft Exhibit at the Monterey County Fair in 1953, winning awards herself in these shows. At one time with a group in the Carmel Craft House, Miss Huber now works in her home studio, with the Carmel Work Center a sales outlet for her stoneware. Her work was shown in the annual Pottery and Sculpture Show last year at the City of Paris in San Francisco. She also displays her work at the Seattle Clay Club, of which she is a member.

Elayne Levrans' Cat Ballou Music Now In The Movies

Burt Lancaster and Tony Curtis will head the cast of the movie, The Ballad of Cat Ballou, and when, as cowboys, they launch into the balled-theme-song of the picture everyone will have a chance to hear the music of Carmelite Elayne Lavrans (Mrs. James Hopper).

All winter she has been setting the words of the ballad to music, in close telephone and mail contact with her friend, Roy Chanslor, who wrote the words of the Cat Ballou ballad and the book by the same name, to be published shortly.

Two weeks ago Hecht-Lancaster Productions bought the movie rights to the book and permission to use the ballad as theme song. Production on the movie will start early next year. The picture will be released through United Artists.

Recording rights to the ballad have also been purchased and records of the ballad, with Roy Page singing, will be available, presummably when the movie is released.

"Kent And Jessica Daniels Have Greater Skill In Turning Ruins Into Paradise Than Anyone" Zenas Potter

Nice, France
April 18, 1956.

Dear Wilma:

Kent and Jessica Daniels made many friends on the Monterey Peninsula where they passed the war period. Yesterday we spent with them in their heavenly just-completed villa at Castagniers, in the mountains about nine miles back of Nice. Perhaps some of their friends would like to hear about it.

Kent and Jessica were the original "out-side" inhabitants of Cagnes - sur - Mer, famous Riveria hill-town artists' and writers' colony. They still own two villas there, which they rent. But for them Cagnes was spoiled by popularity. So when they came back from the war they searched and searched for a town with a spectacular view and no inhabitants but peasants. They found it in Castagniers. The village consists of a church, a school and a small huddle of ancient houses, grouped on an olive covered mountainside about nine miles back of Nice. Perhaps a half mile mainly straight down, is the valley of the Var River. Across it, perhaps three miles away, is the other bank of mountains, along which Gattiers and seven or other ancient hill towns are scattered. To the South lies the wide expanse of the Mediterranean, and to the North peaks rise above peaks in soft blue distance.

The Daniels have greater skill in turning ruins into paradises than anyone, and they have done an exceptional job on this ruin. Charming room after charming room and a series of flower-covered terraces.

We had a ambrosial lunch in what had been the cow-stable and wine-cellar; now the dining salon. Jessica hates cooking, but certainly knows how.

After lunch we went to see son Tony's studio, in an olive orchard a short distance away. He still has, I am sure, many friends among the younger set on the Peninsula. Tony has decided to become an artist and has just completed this studio, before taking off to paint in Algiers. He will paint in his studio some of the time, rent it the rest to provide funds for painting expeditions. We may possibly rent it for a month later on, when it is furnished and gets electricity.

Next Kent and Jessica took us to see the house they had selected for us to buy! Its site was no less spectacular than theirs, and it was much less of a ruin. A plot for a garden, with a great gnarled olive tree, and some of the tall, dark Italian cypresses. It could be had for about $1,800. It would take about $2,000 to turn it into a modern villa. Were we 10 years younger we would buy it. As it is we can only drool.

Diana is married and lives in a villa not far up the mountainside. She has a baby, trying hard to be a child. Peter is married (two children) and is in Economic Cooperation in the Embassy at Madrid. Seems to be doing very well.

I haven't told Kent and Jessica I am reporting on them; but if I had, I am sure they would want to be remembered (from their Paradise) to all their friends on the Monterey Peninsula. They are just as nice as ever.

Sincerely,
Zenas Potter.

P.S. Tomorrow Grace marries the Prince. We are not going. And not just because we were not invited.

Edna Owings

One of our best beloved early residents, Miss Edna Maris Owings passed away quietly in her sleep on Saturday night at her home on Lopez Street and Fourth. She will be missed by those who have known her through long years of quiet rich friendship. She was almost a landmark in Carmel, coming up to the post office regularly for her mail, stopping here and there to visit with old friends, her distinguished, scholarly appearance an integral part of the cultural life of our village.

Miss Owings was born on May 20, 1881, in Columbus, Ohio, and came to Carmel 35 years ago. She is survived by two cousins: Mrs. Francis Comer of Maysville, Kentucky, and Mrs. J. F. Davidson of Columbus, Ohio.

She was a close friend of the Blackman family, old-time residents of Carmel. Before coming here to live she had become proficient in a rare field, that of the medical artist. After retiring from this work Miss Owings began writing and was successful in having some of her work published in the London Mercury, the Atlantic and other well-known periodicals. Her prose was notable for its purity of language, its exactitude of expression and its dignified thought. It was sculptured and polished, never careless, always executed with the utmost precision and scholarship. It should have been more widely known.

It is always with regret that we look back upon the lives of those who have enriched us with so many contributions of the spirit. Why did we not avail ourselves more fully of all they had to give? Why did we not respond more eagerly? Why did we wait until they were gone to say how much we valued their presence among us? A little while ago as she chatted a few moments on the street she spoke of this, and quoted the beautiful lines of Henry Vaughan which now so gently apply to her quiet going.

"They are all gone into the world of light!
And I sit alone ling'ring here;
Their very memory is fair and bright
And my sad thoughts doth clear.

Dear, beauteous Death!
the jewel of the Just,
Shining nowhere, but in the dark;
What mysteries do lie beyond
thy dust,
Could man outlook that mark!"

Although her mind was so richly stored with the great heritage of the past, Miss Owings had a sparkling wit and was a most delightful and stimulating conversationalist. She will be missed by more friends than she ever knew she had. A rare personality leaves an indelible mark on a community. —Dora Comstock.

George London Concert Was Climax Of Series

BY EBEN WHITTLESEY

The Carmel Music Society wound up its regular season Monday evening by presenting an outstanding vocal program. George London, operatic base-baritone, made a distinguished appearance against a background of lilac, in a very well chosen program. The able accompanist was Paul Ulanowsky.

An apt selection by Handel opened the concert; being an interpolation to Israel in Egypt. The measured dignity of this music disclosed a strong voice, well projected and having a balanced intonation. Britten's arrangement of the jolly, rollicking Man is for Woman Made brought out the freedom and color of the vocal personality. Mr. London is a handsome man with a fine stage presence. He has the easy manner of the well trained operatic singer of today.

Four Brahms selections of the less intellectual variety disclosed an effective style in this type of music, though perhaps not the most orthodox interpretation, Auf dem Kirkhhofen was sung with appropriately sepulchral tone color and lively expression. The ever popular Mein Madel hat eine Rosemund was sung with the proper mixture of tenderness and hearty vigor. Die Mainacht conveyed the wistful nostalgic flavor of a spring evening and demonstrated the singer's fine control of soft passages. Finally the gentle, lilting charm of Standchen closed this group.

For an aria we heard Ford's monologue from Verdi's Falstaff. The jealous husband was portrayed with force and vitality. One has the feeling with Mr. London that his characterizations are genuine and thoroughly felt. He tempers the dramatic emphasis to the needs of the concert stage. As an encore we heard a free-moving, light interpretation of Mephisto's serenade from the Damnation of Faust.

Following the intermission came the French group, to me the least attractive part of the program. The necessities of French pronunciation tend to force most male voices into a nasal quality. This was particularly noticeable in contrast with the clear and virile sonority of Mr. London's singing elsewhere. Still, the two selections by Hahn, Si mes Vers avaient des Ailles and d'un Prison, were notable for their color and control. The second of these had a fine moody quality. Debussy's Beau Soir was presented very effectively with muted tone coloring and a fine, restrained atmosphere. The familiar Mandoline, by the same composer, was given a vivid, free and gay interpretation.

When it came time for the English, or rather English and American group, Mr. London announced a complete departure from the program. The substitutions were welcome and very successful. He started with It Ain't Necessarily So from Porgy and Bess, giving it a lively, full bodied reading. Then came a very effective interpretation of the monologue from Emperor Jones. Here was real dynamic power and vocal richness. A colorful selection from the Three Penny Opera followed. Finally there was the dramatic soliloquy from Carousel in which the singer daydreams about his unborn child. This brought out all the artist's range and depth of tone coloring.

A most enthusiastic audience was rewarded with four stirring encores; the prelude from Ottelo, the spiritual He's Got the Whole World in His Hand; Lord Randall, and finally, Don Giovanni's Champagne aria. For me this was certainly the climax of the concert series.

Open Hours For Craft Studios' First Anniversary

The friends of the Carmel Craft Studios are cordially invited to an open house to be held on Saturday evening from 8:00 to 11:00 o'clock, celebrating the anniversary of the Craft Studio's first year.

Medieval Italian madrigals will be played and sung by Giacomo Patri, of San Francisco's Patri School of Art Fundamentals and contemporary entertainment will be provided by Bert and his Modern Four, (Steve Crouch, John Stiles, Dave Gray and Bert Macahilig). Refreshments will be served and the artists and craftsmen will be on hand to greet their guests.

Among the most interesting activities sponsored by the Carmel Craft Studios during the past year was the Art in Action series of lecture-demonstrations in which classical techniques in painting and sculpture, modern directions in art, and architecture in Europe, ballet techniques and many other subjects were presented to the public without charge.

The Carmel Chamber Music Society, under the direction of Gilbert Boyer, presented its first series of five concerts in the patio of the Craft Studios. A second series is planned for the late spring.

On the first Friday of each month, recorded concerts in High Fidelity are being offered with the co-operation of Bayard's Radio Shop and the Browse Around Music Shop.

In the year to come, The Carmel Craft Studios plan to sponsor at least one event of importance to the cultural life of the community each month.

Lucky Things Happen To Joyce Nielsen On Friday, April 13

Two fine things happened to Joyce Nielsen on Friday, April 13. She was admitted to membership in the Carmel Art Association and received a telephone call from New York informing her she had been accepted by Portraits, Inc. as west coast representative. In the future, persons inquiring from Portraits, Inc. for a western artist to paint a desired portrait, will be referred to Joyce. For the past year she has maintained a studio in the Carmel Craft Studios.

Joyce is entirely self-taught. The daughter of Jean C. and George Whitcomb, she has lived in Carmel all her life. Her first encouragement in artistic expression she received from her art teacher at Sunset School, Anna Marie Baer, who urged her to draw and draw and paint and paint, in her own way. She was also encouraged by her aunt, Dora Comstock, herself a painter.

After completing elementary school work at Sunset, Joyce attended Monterey High School (there was no Carmel High School then) and spent one year at Hartnell College. She did not study art in college or high school.

Then marriage to Jack Nielsen and the birth of three sons, Gordon, now 13; Geoffrey who is 11, and Brent, nine years old. Busy with her family, Joyce painted only as a hobby. She became interested in portraiture and painted pictures of friends and family members.

She was asked by other people to do portraits for them, so a year ago she decided to open a studio in the Craft Studios Building. She also joined the staff of the Carmel School of Art maintained in the Craft Studios by Louise Cardeiro Boyer, teaching portraiture and work in pastels.

Joyce submitted photographs and colored slides of her work to Portraits, Inc. and applied for membership in the Carmel Art Association. "I will never again think Friday the thirteenth unlucky", smilingly remarks Joyce.

The Mottas' New Serra Building To Open May 1

The Serra Building, named in honor of Father Junipero Serra, will be ready for occupancy by May 1. It is located on San Carlos near Fifth Street, and includes three stores, two studios on the rear private parking level, and three apartments. The building, just completed, is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Motta, proprietors of the Spinning Wheel restaurant, and is the Motta's second building.

Edwin Lewis Snyder, A.I.A. was architect on The Serra Building, and Ralph L. Stean served as general contractor. Three years ago, Mr. Snyder built the Spinning Wheel at Monte Verde near Ocean for Mr. and Mrs. Motta, and it has been his intention in designing the new Serra Building to keep it in character with Carmel, and also with the Spinning Wheel, designed in a modified Monterey Colonial style.

Two stores face on San Carlos; a third, in the west side, has ocean view. All three apartments open onto a long shaded porch, facing south, and offering a view of the ocean, Point Lobos, and the Santa Lucia Mountains. The building has been designed to protect permanently the tenants' view.

Private parking for tenants is reached by a driveway extending from San Carlos Street to the rear of the Serra Building.

Henry Nishi, owner of The Nishi Nursery, has rented one of the rear studios as office to serve his adjoining business. Dr. Ernest K. Stratton will move his medical offices to the ocean-facing apartment, while George Fraley is planning to open the Del Conte Beauty Studio in one of the three store units. Other tenants will occupy remaining units later in May.

John J. Walsh, Carmel realtor, is managing agent of the property for Mr. and Mrs. Motta.

Lucky Mike "Has No Soul"

Michael Harner, son-in-law of Dr. and Mrs. R. A. Kocher, has won the Dougherty Grant for anthropological research. He has chosen to spend a year studying the ethnological - anthropology of the Jevaro people on the Upper Amazon River in Ecuador. In September, with his wife June, and their two children Terry and Jimmy, he will fly to Quito and set up headquarters for his expedition. June and the children will remain in Quito, when Michael, having found guides and organized his expedition, sets off into far reaches of the Amazon to Jevaro country. The Jevaros are the people who shrink the heads of their slain enemies.

"I am not worried about Mike, though," says June, his wife, "they never shrink the heads of white men, because the Jevaros say the white man has no soul."

African Fashions

Favorite garb for the African woman's fashion show is a brightly printed cotton cloth slightly more than a yard wide and half as long again as the width. Mrs. Earl L. Menker of Oakland showed two such garments to members and guests of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Church of the Wayfarer at the annual missionary tea last Tuesday afternoon. Guests for the meeting were the women of All Saints' and Presbyterian churches, with a few friends and the officers of the Monterey Peninsula United Church Women.

Mrs. Menker represented the national U. C. W. in a seminar study group from the National Council of Churches who toured Africa to learn about conditions of the peoples in the area south of the Sudan. Aided by approval from UNESCO, they had cooperation of government officals everywhere, except the Union of South Africa, where they were refused visas because two persons in the party were Negroes, educated and able, but black.

Mrs. Menker gave an interesting account of the changes coming in the status of the native women, from being a piece of property allowed no education to one of growing influence and respect, but still far below that in civilized countries. Such improvement, as well as most of the schooling so far given to the children of Africa, comes through the efforts of the Christian missionaries of Europe and America. Mrs. Menker is prominent in the U.C.W. and women's organizations of the Methodist church in Northern California. She was introduced by Mrs. K. Fillmore Gray.

Mrs. C. W. Robinson, president, welcomed the guests of the day to the new assembly room, barely completed in the rebuilt main building of the Church of the Wayfarer. Miss Zeala Wright gave a solo, Thanks Be To God, with Mrs. C. A. Broaddus at the piano. Mrs. Broaddus then gave the devotions, using a portion of one of Peter Marshall's sermons. Around 200 persons enjoyed the program and the tea and social hour which followed.

Genia Dances At Pomona

Genia Beattie will perform on Friday in Kinesis, the Pomona College student dance production opening Gallery 56, the first annual three-day art festival at Pomona which will continue on Saturday and Sunday. Genia is the daughter of Mrs. Douglas Beattie of Carmel and is a junior, majoring in drama. Members of the art, music, physical education, English and drama departments are staging the festival.

In the audience will be another daughter of Mrs. Beattie's, Helen, also a Pomona student. A third Beattie daughter attends College of the Pacific, and the youngest, Cynthia, is in the Eighth Grade at Sunset School.

Mrs. Beattie moved here two months ago from Porterville, where she owns an orange ranch. She will make her home in Carmel to be near her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank DeCamp, and because she and the four girls have always wanted to live here.

Helen and Ralph Wed

The marriage of Helen Stewart Johnson and Ralph Westover, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Westover, took place on Saturday afternoon in the Church of the Wayfarer. Dr. K. Fillmore Gray performed the ceremony before the altar decorated with pale yellow roses.

The bride was given in marriage by George K. Fisher of Berkeley. She wore a full skirted ballerina length white tulle dress, made with an off-the-shoulder neckline outlined with Lancelot lace which extended to form the short sleeves of the fitted bodice. Her elbow length white tulle veil fell from a small lace Juliet cap. White baby orchids and bouvardia were combined in her bridal bouquet.

Maid of honor was Caroline Rosenberg wearing a pale, pink lace dress with inserts of satin ribbon in tiered effect, beginning at the round neckline of the bodice and ending at the hem of the full gored skirt.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. John B. Westover, sister-in-law of the groom, Marilyn Thayer and Michelle Nix, were dressed alike in matching pale, pink, raw silk gowns made with off-the-shoulder necklines and full skirts.

Maid of honor and bridesmaids wore similar pink, sequinned bandeaux in their hair, with short face veils and carried bouquets of pink carnations and roses, made alike.

Five-year-old Becky Lou Westover, niece of the groom, was flower girl, in a white nylon tulle dress made by her grandmother, Mrs. John H. Westover. The scalloped neckline of the bodice was outlined with seed pearls and extended into a full skirt. She wore white rosebuds in her hair and carried a miniature copy of the bouquets of the senior attendants.

Best man for his brother was John B. Westover, and ushers were Ted LaFleur, Robert Mullnix and Allen Kollman.

Mrs. Westover chose a beige suit for her son's wedding, with which she wore pink hat and accessories.

The reception took place in the Monterey home of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Westover where the bride and groom received the guests in the living room, which was decorated with white stock and pale pink snapdragons, carrying out the pink and white color scheme of the bride's and attendants' dresses.

The three-tiered wedding cake was served in the dining room from a table decorated with white stock.

When the bride and groom left for a short honeymoon at Brookdale Lodge in the Santa Cruz Mountains, Helen wore a dark blue shantung suit with white hat and accessories, and pinned the orchid corsage from her bouquet to the shoulder of her suit.

The couple will make their home in Berkeley until Ralph, a junior, completes his electrical engineering studies at the University of California.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

The unfailing, supreme justice of God, which brings freedom and peace in the measure that it is understood and adhered to, will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Eeverlasting Punishment."

Scriptural passages will include the following from Proverbs (3:11, 12): ::My son, despise not the chastening of the Lord; neither be weary of his correction: For whom the Lord loveth he correcteth; even as a father the son in whom he delighteth."

Selections to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include the following (542:19-21): "Let Truth uncover and destroy error in God's own way, and let human justice pattern the divine."

The Golden Text is from Proverbs (13:21): "Evil purseuth sinners: but to the righteous good shall be repayed."

Lee Cahoon

Lee S. Cahoon of Jamesburg died on Monday in the Salinas Valley Memorial Hospital after a week's illness. He was born 74 years ago on the Jamesburg ranch which his grandfather, Charles Finch, purchased in 1860.

Finch brought his family from New York over the Isthmus of Panama in 1858 and first settled in Monterey. His four-year-old daughter, Alice, had been so seasick on the journey to California that she could not stand the sight of the ocean. So in 1860, her father, Charles Finch, purchased the ranch at Jamesburg from a Mexican named Smith. His daughter grew up to be the mother of Lee Cahoon.

He attended the Jamesburg School and Heald's Business College in Santa Cruz and then returned to the Jamesburg area to ranch. He is survived by his wife the former Mabel Arnold, a native of Jamesburg to whom he was married in 1907. On April 11 they celebrated the forty-ninth anniversary of their wedding.

Other survivors are two daughters, Mrs. William Bartell of Salinas, and Mrs. Arthur Mann of Watsonville; two sons, Stanley Cahoon of Stockton and Jean Vernon Cahoon, serving with the Army in Germany; three grandchildren and one greatgrandchild.

Funeral services were held this morning at the Struve and La Porte Mortuary in Salinas.

JIM ON JUDO TEAM

Previously he attended Monterey Peninsula College where he was a member of the basketball team. He graduated from Carmel High in 1952, an outstanding athlete, having played on both the football and basketball teams.

north of town where it swings east toward Hatton Canyon, and again at the south where the freeway swings back toward Carmel River. To make sure this Junipero street four-lane highway will be the main artery, and that south of town subdivision residents and freeway traffic that may wish to switch back into town from the south, may not be tempted to use Highway No. 1, Mr. Livingston proposes that Highway No. 1 be closed at the north end so it will have no access to the freeway; also that Highway No. 1 be narrowed to two lanes with plantings down the middle.

This has very good features for the residents along Highway No. 1.

But we are curious as to how a community that fought like a pack of tigers to keep the freeway off highway No. 1 will react to its being put on Junipero Street. In effect that is what this four-lane Junipero highway will be. It has been deliberately planned to provide the most direct route from all the south area development to Monterey, and its feeder highways to the rest of the world. It will also take care of all of the tourist travel. What sight-seeing tourist would choose to drive around by the official freeway, which will run past the backyards of housing developments, when he can scoot through quaint little Carmel, and see Carmel Mission on his way to the famous scenic coast highway.

How are we who live east of it going to get across to see our friends on the west side, or get to town; or to the beach without stop lights like they have up at the high school? How are our kids going to get to school. Mr. Livingston says 25 years from now Sunset will be a community center and not a school, but that's 25 years from now. Junipero street development is now. It has begun and will continue as rapidly as possible, especially if it has the approval of the community as part of the master plan.

A four-lane Junipero Street highway is essential to Mr. Livingston's finely engineered plan for a free flow of traffic. But do we want a free flow of traffic so badly as all that? —Wilma Cook.

City Council Urges Yes For School Bonds

As members of the City Council of Carmel-by-the-Sea, we are vitally interested in the education and opportunities for character development of the children of the community. To enable the School Board to provide the necessary facilities for maintaining the present high standard of education and training, we feel it is imperative that the proposed School Bond Issue have the overwhelming approval of the public. We therefor personally urge every qualified voter of Carmel to go to the polls Thursday and vot YES for the Bond Issue.

Letters To The Editor

April 25, 1956.

To the Carmel Pine Cone
Dear Sirs:

At the last meeting of the Carmel Board of Realtors held April 13, 1956, a discussion was held relative to the establishment of a research laboratory by the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company in the Carmel unincorporated area.

A motion was made and unanimously passed to object to such an establishment of a research laboratory, or any other industrial development.

The Carmel Board of Realtors feels that our area is world renowned for its scenic beauty and residential characteristics, and that any industrial type of development would tend to change the residential character of the area which we all hold most sacred.

President of the Carmel
Board of Realtors,
R. Gibbs.

Pine Cone
P.O. Box G-1,

Dear Madam:

I believe that your stories (issue of April 12) about our proposed subdivision, South Carmel Hills, contained some errors of fact that should be corrected.

The subdivision plan that we submitted to the County provided for sixty lots on twenty acres of land or three lots to the acre. This compares to the population density of Carmel Hills No. 1 and 2, which average three lots to the acre, and to lower Hatton Fields, which average slightly over three lots to the acre.

Livingston's proposed plan for South Carmel Hills retained exactly the same street lay-out, but provided for only forty lots or two lots to the acre, well below the population density of the surrounding areas. Due to the terrain we asked for a minimum of 8,000 square feet, although only fourteen lots out of the sixty would be less than 9,000 square feet. The average area of lots in our proposed subdivision is over 12,000 square feet. Your stories give the wrong impression by confusing minimum size with average size.

We plan a very desirable subdivision, with homes selling from $20,000 to $25,000 and feel sure that it will be an asset to the community.

The County Planning Commission, in my opinion, gave Carmel's proposals every possible consideration before approving a modification of the subdivision as originally proposed.

Sincerely,
Monterey Peninsula

Wright S. Fisher,
president.

Editor of the Pine Cone:

Having moved to Greenwich, Connecticut, it seemed strange to find this in an old handbag (along with some Carmel sand) the other day—written two Easter vacations ago and never mailed—made me long to be there.

"Fifty years ago we came to the rustic little town on the hillside. Now again we visit the picturesque village of today. Much has been written of the place—in prose and poetry, by the artists, and in glowing terms from the Business Group. But from a Grandmother's view, few places compare. Were Danny Kaye to sing to the children, just the names Fan Shell Beach, Lone Cypress, Ghost Tree and Pebble Beach would fascinate them. And when the teen-agers play touch tackle on the beach with their fine young bodies, then plunge into the giant waves, they seem to be the ones that enjoy it most. But again there are the brides and grooms. Where are there more charming Inns and cottages for that idyllic time? Then the cycle begins again, and to the babies the white sandy beach is heaven. So a Grandmother enjoying a spring week, when sunshine and not fog was in order, when the broom and the heather colored the landscape, when the third generation were digging in the sand, feels that perhaps her simple memory of a family's love of Carmel might be appreciated.

Dear Sir:

One wonders whether Carmel Valley appreciates that it was the home of Edwin Berwick, the man who really gave U.S.A. its parcels post. His campaign for a parcel post, imitating Belgium's, was based upon "Letters to the Editor."

On the writer's overseas wanderlusting, he helped this Carmel Valley farmer in the latter's efforts for an inexpensive parcel post. This, by collecting success data, from posting salmon from Ireland, to tea chests from China's hinterland.

Mr. Berwick used public speaking. His most effective weapon, like Rob Roy's few extra inches of longsword, was, however, untiring missives to newspapers until public opinion forced the enactment of the Parcel Post Act.

Some decades after the Hawaiian Islands' monarchy ended, a Honolulu stunt was to write one's grandchild's address on an unhusked cocoanut, paste thereon one or two dime stamps, then parcel post the same to Kalamazoo or Keokuk. It would arrive ready for reincarnation as cocoanut cake.

Sincerely,
G. M. Goethe.
